SUMMER FUN UNLEASHED AT PACC! - FJR

Remember that feeling of endless summer days, buzzing with excitement and new discoveries, that's exactly what the kids experienced at the PACC Summer Camp, which ran from July 9th to July 31st at KMB & FJR.

Forget the typical, snooze-fest summer programs; this was a whirlwind of creativity and adventure. Little hands got gloriously messy with clay art, shaping masterpieces and letting imaginations run wild. Minds were sharpened with lively speeches, engaging debates, and an exciting spelling bee held right in the classroom, sparking friendly competition. The budding Einsteins - 'STEM projects', ignited curiosity and problem-solving skills.

One of the highlights was undoubtedly the field trip to Flagstaff House, offering a unique peek into history and a chance to explore beyond the classroom walls. The grand finale was a fantastic graduation day where all the campers celebrated their achievements and new friendships.

From start to finish, the air at PACC was electrifying along with laughter and learning. It's safe to say, these kids didn't just attend a summer camp; they had an absolute blast making memories that'll last long after the last ice cream cone of summer!

The July Campers Stepped into History! - FJR

Our super enthusiastic campers, ranging from ages of 6 to 15, went on an epic adventure to the Quaid-e-Azam House Museum. It was a total blast from the past, like time-traveling right into the life of the Quaid himself. They were utterly mesmerized by the beautiful, rich teakwood furniture and gasped at the stunning dining set, a thoughtful gift from his sister, Shirin Jinnah! And get this – they even got a whiff of history from the incredibly preserved sandalwood chest that still emits a soft, captivating fragrance, even after all these years! They explored every nook and cranny, imagining life in that old grand house, and were fascinated to discover the kitchen wasn't even part of the main building, complete with its own huge, intriguing chimneys! It was such a unique architectural detail that truly captured their imaginations.

After soaking up all that amazing history, the fun wasn't over! Our clever campers put their newfound knowledge to the test with a thrilling quiz based on their visit; talk about a perfect way to cap off a day filled with learning and laughter! Shylock’s demand of Antonio’s “pound of flesh” if the promised sum of money is not paid within the stipulated time frame, kept the audience in awe.

Carrrom Contest - KMB

The Carrrom Contest created a lively atmosphere in the activity room. The ELP players carefully slid the smooth white striker across the polished wooden board, aiming for the black and white coins. Every time a coin dropped into the pocket, the student cheered and had to make a sentence using an adjective/verb/noun given to him. If correct, he got an extra winning point. The friendly match not only tested their skills but also helped them learn and identify the use of different parts of speech.

Writing Contest - KMB

The inter-class ESL contest was an exciting opportunity for students to showcase their creativity and language skills. Each participant was given a short prompt and asked to write a piece within the time limit. The classroom buzzed with concentration as pens moved swiftly across pages and took shape into stories and reflections.

The students were appreciated when reading out their valuable piece of writing. The winners were decided by the participants themselves as this helped them decide a piece of quality writing.

Eat Your Way to a Bloat-Free Belly!

It starts with healthy breakfast choices

1. Don't Carbo-Load at Breakfast

Carbohydrates hold water in your body, which may make your belly bloat. Plus, high-carb, high-sugar breakfast foods like sweet rolls or cereal might fill you up initially, but you'll probably end up searching for more food within an hour, says nutritionist Alissa Rumsey. "Those digest rapidly, then your blood sugar spikes up and drops back down pretty quickly because they digest so fast," she says. Those extra carbs will more likely cause bloating than if you'd started with a more filling breakfast.

2. Greek Yoghurt in the Morning

Look for a brand of Greek yoghurt that contains live and active cultures, which will promote healthy bacteria in your gut to prevent bloating. Slowly add a little more fiber to your diet every day for a flatter belly, and increase your water intake to aid digestion, flush out the sodium, and reduce bloating.

3. Add a Dose of Potassium

Sodium is a big cause of bloating by making your body retain water, but potassium helps counterbalance that salt. Slice a banana onto your yoghurt, or scramble up eggs with tomato and spinach, which are other good sources of potassium.

4. Snack on Cheese and an Apple

Not only will the protein in cheese keep you full so you're not tempted to snack more later, but it can also help you avoid bloating and gas. Pairing it with an apple gives you an extra kick of nutrients. "Protein helps the flow of digestion and gives you the nutrients your body needs, along with fiber," says nutritionist Jessica Crandall.

It's TOUGH being a politician. Half your reputation is ruined by lies; the other half is ruined by the truth.

WHEN her late husband's will was read, a widow learned he had left the bulk of his fortune to another woman. Enraged, she rushed to change the inscription on her spouse's tombstone.

"Sorry, lady," said the stonecutter.

"I inscribed 'Rest in Peace' on your orders. I can't change it now." "Very well," the widow said grimly. "Just add 'Until We Meet Again'."

AN AUTOMOBILE DEALER was asked if advertising was effective. "Yes, it brings very quick results," he replied.

"Once we ran an ad that our watch dog was missing and offered a reward for his return."

"Did you get him back?"

"No, but that very night three cars were stolen from our showroom."

HAVING PURCHASED NEW APPLIANCES for our house, my wife and I decided to give our old refrigerator to my parents.

When I spoke to my mother on the phone a few days later, she announced, "We want to send you a check for the refrigerator."

"No, Mom, it's a gift," I said. "We want you to have it." "But you could have sold it," she persisted.

"Look, Mom," I replied. "Just consider it as repayment for all those days that you took care of me while I was in diapers."

After a slight pause she answered, "In that case, the refrigerator doesn't cover it."
